

Adriana Evans well-ordered and solitary life is turned upside down when her mother insists that visiting architect Preston Cartwright simply MUST stay in the family home, rather than the impersonal hotel that Adriana had arranged. It wouldn't be a problem if Adriana hadn't had recurring dreams and thoughts about the quiet man over ten years now. Preston Cartwright has been in love with the fiery red-headed Adriana since he first saw her in the dormitory living room campus. They had been friends, and almost inseparable until one night, an event changed their friendship, causing him to pull away from her. Committing to renovate and restore the historic Fire Station in Abbeville was just the thing Preston needed to show Adriana that the way to true love was like building a structure. Start with a firm foundation, carefully place layers and levels of companionship, accent the details and the result is sure to be something that will last forever. That is, if he can get her to stand still long enough.
